

CV

Matthew Marwick

20 June 2020

KZN based Matthew Marwick was born in 1971 and was educated at Maritzburg College. He obtained his B.Com and LLB degrees at the University of Natal. Prior to that, as a fresh-faced 18 year-old, he did national service in the last intake of the Staatspresidentseenheid. Two of his more proud boasts include having been awarded the certificate as “Best Recruit in Alpha Company” and having been in the ceremonial guard at the historic opening of parliament in Cape Town in February 1990. After practising as an attorney at Webber Wentzel in Johannesburg for some years, he succumbed to a life-long desire to teach history at his old school to which he did return in 2004. He is the Deputy Headmaster (Admissions) at Maritzburg College, teaches history and economics, coaches rugby, and is chairman of the school’s busy Archives Committee. Matthew is married to Kirsten, and they have two young sons.